United States District Court For the Northern District of California present their claims to the jury at trial. Dkt. No. 7188. The jury will be required to find, after trial, whether plaintiffs have proved the facts necessary to demonstrate liability and damages in accordance with the instructions they will be given. If, after trial and verdict, defendants continue to dispute the sufficiency of the evidence to support the jury's findings, they have options under the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure to attempt to remedy their concerns.

Accordingly, the Court DENIES defendants' motion.

IT IS SO ORDERED.
